Who am I?

RJ comes from a small town an hour outside New York City. She enjoys traveling, shopping, watching TV, and exercising. She loves plants, dogs, and cats. As an occupational therapist for about three years, RJ started travel therapy right out of OT school, which exposed her to many different work settings. She has been fortunate to work in various environments, including nursing homes, assisted living facilities, schools, inpatient rehab, neuro outpatient, and home health. RJ has worked with people of all ages, ranging from 1 to 100 years old.

Outside of work, RJ enjoys living in the moment and being outdoors. She loves participating in activities that involve moving the body, such as hiking, boxing, Pilates, and Zumba. She enjoys watching all genres of movies and TV shows, as well as reading books. RJ appreciates meaningful conversations with genuine people and values forming lifelong friendships.

Private Practise MSK Experience

RJ has about three years of experience working in a private practice. Her duties and responsibilities included providing therapeutic services for clients and educating them across various facilities such as nursing facilities, community-based centers, and via teletherapy. She collaborated with physical therapists, speech-language pathologists, educational therapists, and counselors to improve patient quality of life. RJ administered initial evaluations, identified major problems, developed treatment plans (goals and management), and administered patient therapy programs (e.g., range of motion). She reviewed and updated patient programs through interim evaluations and communicated with outside ancillary services, such as neuro-optometrists and neurologists, as needed.

Additionally, RJ ran vocational groups on the roles and responsibilities of different jobs with clients, assisting them in preparing for and finding suitable occupations. She helped clients with their gross, fine motor, and social development skills to aid functioning in different settings.

Hospital Experience

RJ has worked in an inpatient rehabilitation hospital for three months. Her duties and responsibilities included effectively delegating tasks and supervising occupational therapist assistants and technicians. She provided occupational therapy treatment and patient care according to hospital, state, and federal regulations, as well as professional guidelines. RJ maintained open and ongoing communication with hospital departments and physicians to ensure the needs of patients, staff, and the hospital were met. She has no experience in acute care as yet.
